Short Report: Dr. Md. Masihur rahaman, Assistant Professor, Dept. of English arranged an extension Lecture for the 3rd Semester students. The event took place at virtual platform as teaching learning was going on virtual platform owing to Pandemic. The guiding principle behind this extension lecture was: a) Students were introduced to Resource Person from outside Sukanta Mahavidyalaya b) The presentation and discussion would give a scope for widening the knowledge and understanding on a given topic.

A topic from American Literature, already taught by the Departmental teacher was selected for this extension lecture and it was informed the target students much before. Dr Mosarraf Hossain, Assistant Professor of English, Kabi Nazrul College, Murarai, Birbhum was requested to deliver the lecture on the topic entitled "Black Lives Matter: A Study of William Faulkner's Dry September".

The online lecture/ event was inaugurated by Nilangshu Sekhar Das, Principal, Sukanta Mahavidyalaya, who delivered an inaugural speech and inspired the audiences with his words of wisdom. A short Bio-Note of the Resource Person was read out by Pawan Toppo, Assistant Professor of Sukanta Mahavidyalaya. The Resource Person was requested to deliver his speech before the students who were around 70 in number. Using PPT Dr Hussain presented his topic and answered the questions that followed the lecture. Dr Hossain impressed the audience with his erudite and scholarly presentation.

The whole event was conducted by Dr. Md. Masihur Rahman, assistant professor, Sukanta Mahavidyalaya.
